CITY COUNCIL

PARKING, THE ROAD RULES AND YOU

Parking and traffic laws exist to ensure the safe and fair use of Victoria's roads for the benefit of everyone.

YOUR RESPONSIBILITY:

As a licensed driver, you are expected to be aware of the Road Rules and adhere to them at all times. Failure to obey the Road Rules can lead to the issuing of a parking infringement. If this infringement is not paid, statutory costs and legal action may result.

HOBSONS BAY CITY COUNCIL'S RESPONSIBILITY IS TO ENSURE:

- Parking spaces are shared fairly by the community.
- Motor and pedestrian traffic is not obstructed or inconvenienced.
- Any danger caused by unsafe parking is minimised.

YOUR RIGHT TO APPEAL

You have the right to request a review of your infringement before the due date on your infringement notice. Under the infringements Act 2006 there can only be one review of your infringement.

You may request a review if you believe:

1. The decision to issue an Infringement Notice:
 - a) was contrary to law.
 - b) Involved a mistake of identity, for example the person to whom the infringement was issued was not the actual person who committed the offence.
2. That "special circumstances" apply to you. Under the Infringements Act "special circumstances" apply to a person if they are unable to understand that conduct constitutes an offence or are unable to control conduct that constitutes an offence due to any of the following:
 - a) A mental or intellectual disability, disorder, disease or illness.
 - b) A serious addiction to drugs, alcohol or a volatile substance.
 - c) Homelessness.
3. The conduct for which the Infringement Notice was served should be excused having regard to any exceptional circumstances relating to the Infringement Offence. This may include:
 - Car broken down.
 - Medical emergencies. There will be situations where a person may need emergency treatment. This does not include general appointments at the hospital, doctors, dentist etc.
 - Failure to display permits correctly.

Note: All of the above are subject to proof and the discretion of the Internal Ombudsman.

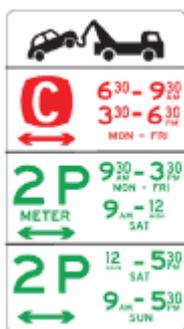

REQUESTING A REVIEW

There are some important things you should know about making a request for a review:

1. Can be made by you or by somebody acting on your behalf with your consent.
2. Must be in writing.
3. A request for a review must state the grounds on which you consider the decision should be reviewed.
4. You must provide your current address and Infringement No.
5. To avoid additional costs and enforcement action being taken against you, a request for a review should be made prior to the due date listed on the Infringement Notice.

Some common situations where people issued with an Infringement Notice ask for review of the Infringement Notice because of "exceptional circumstances" and the likely outcome of such a review are detailed hereunder. While each case will be reviewed on its own merits based on the information provided, you should consider the following information prior to requesting a review of your Infringement Notice.

SIGNAGE

Parking signs can apply to a length of road, an area or a car park. It is important that you look for signs when entering any street or car park. They may not be right next to your car. If a sign is located at a distance from your vehicle, you should leave your vehicle and move to a point from which you can clearly read every panel of the sign to ensure that the position in which you have chosen to park is legal.

Reading every panel of a multi-panel sign is vital. Each panel could contain information relating to the location in which you want to park your car. The panels with the arrows pointing towards your car will advise which restrictions apply to you. Don't forget, some areas can have several different types of restriction in a single day i.e.: timed parking, permit zone, loading zone etc.

Information relating to the days and times when restrictions apply can vary from location to location. Each sign will tell you when it applies. If no days and times are shown, the restriction applies twenty-four (24) hours of every day of the year.

Parking signs should be checked every time you park your car, even if you are familiar with the area. Restrictions and/or the days and times when restrictions apply are occasionally amended to meet the changing needs of the community.

The following appeals would not be considered valid reasons for withdrawal of parking infringements:

- Poor visibility due to weather.
- Not noticing a sign.
- Reading only part of a multi-panel sign.
- Being unable to read the sign from the front seat of the car.
- Forgetting to read the sign because you were concentrating on other things.
- Not noticing that a sign/restriction had been changed.
- Being new to the area and unfamiliar with the restrictions. This applies regardless of whether the driver is from Victoria, interstate or overseas.

TICKET MACHINES

If the ticket machine is broken and cannot issue a ticket, you are still only entitled to park for the prescribed length of time. If a patrolling officer has noted the time you parked, they can give you a ticket for overstaying even if the meter is broken.

You must pay for parking as prescribed. The onus is on the driver to ensure that they have sufficient monies to cover the cost of parking and ensure that the time paid for is sufficient. For example, medical appointments are widely known to run late and procedures can often take longer than expected, it is the driver's responsibility to allow for this when parking the car.

In the event that a ticket machine is not working or found to be faulty please contact Council (telephone number displayed on Ticket Machine) prior to an infringement notice being issued. Council will record your call, please state the ticket machine number and contact details for yourself. When reporting faulty ticket machines, please be aware that in most instances off-street parking facilities have a number of machines. You must endeavour to purchase a ticket from a working machine.

The following appeals would not be considered valid reasons for withdrawal of parking infringements:

- The meter was broken so I thought I could stay as long as I want.
- Assumed the meter was not working.
- Running late or being in a hurry.
- Being delayed at an appointment.
- Went to get change or ran out of change.

'NO STOPPING' VERSUS 'NO PARKING'

No Stopping means no stopping at all - even if you are only letting someone out of the car, and regardless of whether you leave the engine running and stay in the car. Stopping on a length of road to which a 'No Stopping' sign applies is an offence, unless you are outside the times specified on the sign. You must not stop where there is a continuous yellow line painted on the edge of the road.

No Parking a driver must not stop on a length of road or in an area to which a no parking sign applies, unless the driver is dropping off or picking up, passengers or goods. The driver can not leave the vehicle unattended and must complete the stop within 2 minutes or in accordance with what the sign indicates.

The following appeals would not be considered valid reasons for withdrawal of parking infringements:

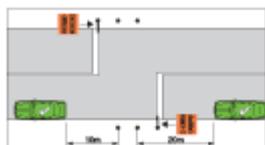

No Stopping

- I only stopped to let my passenger out. I only stopped for 2 minutes.

No Parking

- I only left my vehicle to get my passengers or retrieve the goods.

CHILDREN'S CROSSING

Stopping or parking your vehicle too close to a children's' crossing may mean that a child entering the crossing can't see or be seen by an approaching car. When a children's' crossing is in operation (i.e. when the flags are displayed), you must not stop or park within 20 metres of the crossing on the approach side and 10 metres of the crossing on the departure side. This means that even stopping momentarily to let a child out or pick a child up is an offence. These restrictions do not apply when the crossing is not operating and the flags are not displayed.

However, if there is also a 'No Stopping' or 'No Parking' signs at the approach to the crossing you must obey it at all times.

In the interest of safety for the children and to avoid congestion, vehicle registration numbers are recorded and infringements are sent via mail.

The following appeals would not be considered valid reasons for withdrawal of parking infringements:

- I wanted to drop my children as close to the gate as possible.

CLEARWAYS

Clearways exist to improve traffic flow at the busiest times of the day. A clearway starts at the 'Clearway' sign and ends at the 'End Clearway' sign. You cannot stop or park your car between those signs during the times specified on the Clearway sign. As well as fining you, the police or local council can have your car towed away by an authorised operator if the clearway is classified as a Tow Away Zone. You may have to pay a release fee to get your car back.

The following appeals would not be considered valid reasons for withdrawal of parking infringements:

- I was just visiting and didn't realise it was a clearway.
- I ran out of petrol.

LOADING ZONE

You can only stop in a Loading Zone if you are driving:

- A truck or a G-classified vehicle that is constructed mainly for carrying goods or loads (not a sedan, station wagon or motorbike).
- A public passenger vehicle or taxi.

A courier or delivery vehicle permanently marked in the way specified by the Regulations (ask Council or VicRoads), and you are actually loading or delivering goods or picking up or setting down people. You can't park your truck in a Loading Zone just because it's a truck. If there is no time limit on the sign, you can stop for a maximum of 30 minutes.

The following appeals would not be considered valid reasons for withdrawal of parking infringements:

- Privately registered vehicle stopped for a couple of minutes to drop off or pick-up passengers or goods.

PERMIT PARKING

In areas where there is limited parking, Council may set aside parking areas for residents or other designated groups. Parking without a permit may be restricted or prohibited.

The following appeals would not be considered valid reasons for withdrawal of parking infringements:

- Parked in a permit zone by mistake.
- Failing to display permit.

OTHER ZONES

You must not stop in a taxi or bus zone unless you are authorised to do so.

The following appeals would not be considered valid reasons for withdrawal of parking infringements:

- Privately registered vehicle only stopped for a couple of minutes to drop off or pick up passengers or goods.

PARKING FOR TOO LONG

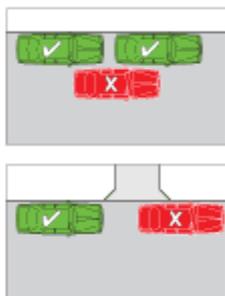

Time limits are set on parking spaces to allow as many people as possible to have access to an area. Where a parking control sign applies to a length of road or an area, you must not park there continuously for longer than the period allowed. If you stay longer you can be issued with a penalty. If you want to stay longer, you must move your vehicle out of the area between the two signs and into another parking area. Putting more money in the meter does not cancel out your obligation to move after the time limit is up, nor will moving to another bay within the same parking area save you from an infringement penalty.

In some instances there may be metered parking payable Monday to Saturday but no metered parking on a Sunday. A common mistake is people assume that because parking is possibly non-metered in some areas on a Sunday that they do not have to abide by the parking time limit. This is not correct and will result in an infringement being issued.

The following appeals would not be considered valid reasons for withdrawal of parking infringements:

- I moved from one bay into another, next to or in the same signed area.
- Meter stated free parking on Sunday assumed I could park in the spot all day.

PARKING CORRECTLY

It is an offence to double park. When parking in a two-way street you must park on the left hand side of the road. Your vehicle must face the direction of travel, i.e. passenger side must be parked to the kerb and NOT the steering wheel side. You must park within the marked lines of the parking bay.

A driver can not stop on a bicycle path, footpath, shared path, dividing strip, or a nature strip adjacent to a length of road in a built-up area, unless there is permissive signage. Please note, Council's Local Laws also prohibit the sale of vehicles on roads or Council controlled land.

Nature Strips - Council supports this law as often tree roots can be compacted, grass is worn down resulting in the nature strip becoming unsightly, and there can be instances when utility companies require urgent access to underground cabling.

Footpath - Drivers must not stop on a road in a position that obstructs access by vehicles or pedestrians to, or from, a footpath ramp or a similar way of access to a footpath. There is potential for pedestrians and others, particularly those in wheelchairs, motorised wheelchairs and prams to be obstructed.

Driveway - Drivers must not park across a driveway and always allow clear passage for access and egress.

The following appeals would not be considered valid reasons for withdrawal of parking infringements:

- Stopped for a brief period.
- No one objected to me parking there.
- It is my driveway and I am not obstructing anyone.
- There was still room for a person to get through.
- I always park on the nature strip for safety because the road is busy.
- I have always parked on the nature strip.
- I parked my car on the nature strip so that people could see that it was for sale.

DISABLED PARKING

There are two types of parking permits for people with disabilities. One is blue-on-white and the other green-on-white and both are issued by local Councils in accordance with State guidelines. If you need a disabled parking permit, contact your Council to see which type you qualify for. A disabled parking space can only be used by someone with a blue-on-white disabled parking permit, or by a driver who is parking the car so that the disabled permit holder can get in or out of the car. Permits are only valid when the disabled person is travelling in the vehicle.

A person with disabilities who holds only a green-on-white permit, or who does not hold any permit, must not park in signed blue disabled parking bays. Holders of either permit can park for twice the time normally allowed in ordinary parking spaces. A disabled parking permit must be displayed at the left side or centre of the front windscreen, so that the permit number and expiry date can be seen from outside. The driver must give his/her name and address and produce his/her driver's licence and the permit when asked to do so by police or an authorised officer.

Note: in order to be eligible to park twice the normal time you must initially pay for the full metered parking time displayed.

The following appeals would not be considered valid reasons for withdrawal of parking infringements:

- I hold a green-on-white permit, but there were only blue on white parks available.
